One of the worst fires the departnent here has been called out to was discovered in the Shannon building. corner of Main and Shetucket streets, at 2.20 o'clock this morning by William Pearson and Daniel Troland, who were on their way to the Driscoll lunch cart. They saw the stairway on the second floor i nflames, and at once yelled fire and rang in an alarm from box 4. The fire department at once responded, but the blaze was shotting through the roof and was probably beyond control before it was discovered.

The upper floors were a mass of flames and the street was filled with burning embers and broken glass, mixed with electric wires, which made a bad combination for the firemen to work with until the electric road current was shut off.

The work of rescuing the people who liven in the building was at once started. Prof. Lowrth was taken out of the ther, who keeps a clothing store in Bank street.
